ALLSTATE RESOURCE MANAGEMENT ANNOUNCES ANNUAL FISH STOCKING

January 22nd Event Will Have Positive Impact on South Florida's Aquatic Life

DAVIE, FL – Allstate Resource Management, Inc, a South Florida leader in aquatic resource management for more than 10 years, is holding its Annual Fish Stocking on January 22nd. This year's event will bring change and sustainability to South Florida's fragile waterways.

Hundreds of thousands of non-native fish die in South Florida ponds, lakes and waterways every year as a result of the winter weather. This year's Annual Fish Stocking is important because it will bring eco-friendly native freshwater fish and natural balance back to South Florida's ecosystem and revitalize its aquatic life.

Allstate Resource Management will hold its 2011 Annual Fish Stocking on January 22nd from 11:00 am to 1:00 pm at the University of Florida, Fort Lauderdale Research & Education Center located at 3205 College Ave. Davie, FL 33314. For directions, please visit <http://flrec.ifas.ufl.edu/directions.shtml>.

"A balanced, healthy fish population benefits the aquatic environment because it can help to absorb nutrients in the water and control undesirable weeds, insects and other aquatic pests, as well as to provide recreational enjoyment for residents. We will be stocking channel catfish, bluegill and shiners," said Andy Fuhrman, Executive Director of Allstate Resource Management, Inc.

In addition to fish stocking, Allstate Resource Management, Inc., headquartered in Davie, Florida, also provides lake management, wetland management, stormwater services, erosion control and the restoration of shorelines along with the introduction of native plants.
